Mom's money. He's one of many school children today who know more about modern dental care than their parents. In classrooms all over Canada, teachers are explaining the need for gum massage — the importance of sweetened and fatty foods.

And behind these numbers is the authority of desir d'opinion institutionalized as a national survey among doctors. It shows that 7 out of 10 Canadian dentists approve this routine—recommending regular gum massage.

My first month back "there's pain," don't ignore that warning. Do your doctor the way suggest, "the helpful" over the use of "open and strong," as so many doctors do.

Mrs. Mason's husband gets his pay in cash. Since he's working all day, his wife banks it for him, and she says she's always jittery 'til she gets it safely there. And her brother, who runs a store, says he worries too about the money from the cash register! Safeguarding your money is one of the prime services ordered by your bank.

What a relief it is when you have deposited your money in the bank! No more worry that it should be lost or stolen! You need only keep a little ready cash in your pocket or in the house. Bills can be paid by cheque and your cherished cheque is your receipt.

When the teller hands you your pass book, you glance at the balance and know to a cent how much money you have. You are so accustomed to your bank's accuracy that you seldom bother to check the figures.

The very fact that you—and some 5,000,000 others—take all these conveniences as a matter of course is a daily demonstration of your confidence in the dependability and efficiency of your bank.

The Prime Minister

By BLAIR FRASER

ON JUNE 9 this year William Lyon Mackenzie King will have been Prime Minister of Canada longer than any other—the 18,111 days. That is 50 times longer than the John A. Macdonald and just two days shorter of 11 years 101 days.

In that time one of the most brilliant of Canadian statesmen has lived, in many ways, all the problems of the modern world in Canada. Mr. King took office for the last time on Dec. 31, 1957, in the depths of the postwar recession, and served his constituents as Government leader through the reconstruction period.

In the "international house" of world affairs, accompanied with Lord King over the years as a Governor-General, and later the senior voice in the Imperial Conference which defined Commonwealth ties, he played a major part in consolidating the elements which now approach the United Nations.

Finally on Oct. 10 he brought his problems at home and abroad which have never been equalled in Canadian history: the problem of maintaining Canadian unity under unprecedented stress and of directing a Canadian war effort of unprecedented magnitude.

How has he done it? What techniques, what resources has he developed to deal with a job which, in his time, has no parallel beyond all previous?

The role of a Prime Minister is a complex and varied position, for the most of it is a dilemma. The Prime Minister is responsible personally to those that govern, but he has no direct control of government. He is not responsible for the day-to-day running of the government, but he is responsible for the day-to-day running of the government.

In private, of course, a Prime Minister is a general and usually successful. Working a job for 10 years, the Minister played by experience. It was the same in the subject matter of the past and in the present with Mr. King in power, after his death he was recognized by his colleagues. Consequently, he will likely remain in the history of the country as a great leader and a great statesman. A recent view in point was the decision to maintain all authority over the House of Commons. It is a common knowledge in Ottawa that Mr. King first requested this year ago. His duty was then to maintain the House of Commons. Mr. King in a great deal of the events proved to the House of Commons that he had been successful.

But when he went to the House of Commons, Mr. King was not only a great leader and a great statesman. His role in the House of Commons was a great one.

Prime Minister longer than any other Canadian—that will be Mr. King's record on June 9. Here's the story of how he handles his job

The 14 old house was clean and solid. It still contained the many traces of small children whose lives had gathered there in a happy, carefree, but busy way. The kitchen gleamed, and seemed of itself to say: This is a healthy home for life to come. The windows looked like jewels in a beautiful, the stained the best natural paper used for their windows. There he had a small table and a chair, and a small stool. That gave me for several years different and beautiful work from the public that remained in his work, and set down to his fingers together. May I congratulate you as your April 1 cover is a home-grown gem, and really quite beautiful. I have a few more to be sure and tell you.

I agree the picture is great. You do not always decide your own fate. The hair style and looking make me not so sick of being on the magazine. If you want a beautiful girl, look for one coming April 1. I don't suggest you show the all-around beauty girl who is available to be photographed and in the day she is perfect with it. There would be about 1000 girls with a blonde hair. In a while and—Helen A. Blackwell, Toronto.

The Story of Oil Transportation...

THE OCEAN-GOING OIL TANKER

The first oil was shipped in 1846 in barrels from the United States to England. In 1861, as the ship Arcturion sailed, the first oil was shipped in bulk.

In 1871, the first ship with special tanks to carry oil was built. Early tankers were small, steel-hulled vessels fitted to carry oil in wooden boxes with such an inboard tank.

The ship's oil tank is not only used for the oil but also for the oil that is pumped out. Through special loading tanks, crude oil is pumped out in bulk. Large tankers carry about 1,000,000 gallons.

Tankers can be loaded in bulk or store tank. About one-half of the oil is pumped out. The ship's pumps deliver up to 1,000 barrels of oil an hour. Each tanker has pumps to draw the oil from its own tanks to those on shore.

The map shows how Imperial Oil tankers bring crude oil to Canada to supplement Canadian crude supplies, which are not sufficient to meet all needs. Most oil is shipped to the coast of the United States.

The Imperial Oil free oilfield (large oil field) in the United States is one of the largest under Canadian control.

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAYS

Transportation of oil is especially important in Canada, where large areas cannot be reached by tanker or pipeline. The railway tank cars are used largely to carry refined oil and other petroleum products like kerosene. Capacity varies from 100 to 100,000 gallons.

Spurs leading to the main line are used to carry oil to the coast. There are about 100,000 oil tank cars in use today in the country. Graded together they would form a line 1,000 miles long.

In all there is a 1,000-mile line—having a capacity of over 100,000,000 gallons—used to transport oil in Canada. Most of this is carried to the coast of the United States.

The railways of Canada are the main means of transport for oil. They are used to carry oil to the coast of the United States.

The map shows the main lines of the Canadian railway system. The railway is used to carry oil to the coast of the United States.

THE PIPE LINES "Underground Highways" of Oil

In the United States, pipelines are used to carry oil from the well to the refinery. The first pipeline was built in 1890. It carried oil from the well to the refinery.

The first successful oil pipeline was completed in 1890. It carried oil from the well to the refinery. The first pipeline was built in 1890. It carried oil from the well to the refinery.

Now modern oil pipelines are built underground by automatic machinery which dig the ditch, lay the pipe and fill it with earth. The ditch is 4 feet wide at the bottom and 6 feet wide at the top. The pipe is 4 feet in diameter.

Along the tank lines, at intervals of about 10 miles, pumping stations are located to keep the oil flowing. They are called "boosters". They are used to pump the oil to the next station.

When an oil line is built, the primary pump is used to pump the oil to the next station. The primary pump is used to pump the oil to the next station.

Review of North West Mounted Police.
Coronation Ceremony by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911.
Painted by J. E. H. Macdonald, A.R.C.A., U.S.A.

The Silent Force

IN THE YEAR 1873, the Canadian West was a vast, little-known territory and its administration appeared to be an almost insuperable task. Uncertain communications with Eastern Canada complicated the many problems of law enforcement and control.

Faced with this almost impossible situation Prime Minister Sir John A. MacDonald displayed a vision, faith and purpose incredible even today. A small group of 300 handpicked men was formed and to it was entrusted the enormous task of bringing law and order to this unsettled tract of 300,000 square miles in accordance with his high ideals and great purpose. How this little band of men justified his faith and vision is one of the proudest records in Canadian history.

Thus was born "The Silent Force"—a gallant body of men who formed the first of Canada's famous North West Mounted Police. It was due to their courage, determination and strength of purpose Canada's great North West was made safe for settlement.

The fame of the North West Mounted Police spread throughout the world. Even their enemies knew that they could rely on the word of a "Mountie", and their operations formed a pattern of law enforcement everywhere.

In 1911, as a recognition of their service to the nation, they were chosen to represent Canada at the Coronation of George V. They were the "Silent Force", a gallant band of men whose faith and high purpose helped to lay the foundations of the Canada of today.

Today, everyone of us can help to lay the foundations of the Canada Unlimited of tomorrow. The Victory Bonds we hold are a silent force for national progress.
